Dear ███████████,

In these situations, it is possible for the ACMA to put your fathers 2-letter call sign on a reserve list, so that it cannot be reissued for up to two years.
This would give a family member time to study and obtain advanced amateur qualifications and request to carry on the call sign.

If no family members are interested in doing so, then the licence will be surrendered and the call sign returned to the Wireless Institute of Australia, so that other amateur operators could apply for it.

Could you please advise which way you wish to go reserve the call sign, or surrender it?
