Subject: Misuse of amateur radio Contest Callsigns

I wish to advise that "The Radio Amateur Society of Australia Inc. RASA" has created a so-called contest with an extended period in an effort to enable amateur radio stations to use their Contest Callsigns on air all the time when in fact they are not in a contest.

This is outside the guidelines for the limited use of these callsigns.

In particular, [REDACTED] is regularly on air using [REDACTED] contest callsign and stating that it is valid use as [REDACTED] is participating in the above-mentioned so-called contest. This is in fact a contrived way of getting around the strict rules.
