Hi Creina,

Nice to hear from you, and thank you so much for the heads up, which we really appreciate. This is really helpful for us to know, particularly as we plan to appear before the Joint Select Committee on Electoral Matters' Inquiry.

Hi Sunita,

Hope you are well.

I'm writing to advise that, on Tuesday morning, the ACMA will be publishing its submission to the DIGI disinformation code review on our submissions webpage.

This will enable us to refer to the submission in relevant public forums, including as part of our upcoming appearance to the Joint Select Committee on Electoral Matters' Inquiry into the 2022 federal election.

We are not planning any media materials and won't be taking any steps to publicly promote its release. Nevertheless, given the submission highlights some of the ACMA's ongoing concerns with specific aspects of the code, we wanted to update you in case it did gain public/media attention.

We have also notified Minister Rowland's office and DITRDCA.

Please get in touch should you have any questions or concerns.

Apologies it is so late in the day but thought best to advise you now rather than Monday morning.

Kind regards,
Creina
